

- 1. The first part of the text (lines 1-10) describes the general situation of the country. The author mentions the political and economic changes that have taken place since the end of the 1980s. The text is written in a formal, objective style.
- 2. The second part of the text (lines 11-20) focuses on the social and cultural aspects of the country. The author discusses the impact of globalization and the influence of Western culture on the local population. The text is written in a more subjective style, reflecting the author's personal observations.
- 3. The third part of the text (lines 21-30) deals with the environmental issues facing the country. The author highlights the rapid urbanization and the resulting air pollution and deforestation. The text is written in a persuasive style, aiming to raise awareness about these problems.
- 4. The fourth part of the text (lines 31-40) discusses the role of the government in addressing these challenges. The author argues for a more active role of the state in regulating the economy and protecting the environment. The text is written in a formal, analytical style.
- 5. The fifth part of the text (lines 41-50) concludes the author's thoughts on the future of the country. The author expresses optimism about the potential for growth and development, provided that the right policies are implemented. The text is written in a hopeful and forward-looking style.
- 6. The overall structure of the text is logical and coherent. It follows a clear progression from general background information to specific social and environmental issues, and finally to the author's conclusions and recommendations. The use of formal language and objective tone adds to the credibility of the text.
- 7. The text is well-organized and easy to read. The author uses clear and concise sentences to convey complex ideas. The use of paragraph breaks helps to separate different sections of the text, making it easier to follow the author's argument.

Questions for Oral Answers

1. What is the main topic of the text? How does the author introduce the topic?
2. What are the main points discussed in the text? How does the author support these points?
3. What are the author's views on the social and cultural changes in the country? Do you agree with the author's views?
4. What are the environmental problems mentioned in the text? How can these problems be solved?
5. What role should the government play in addressing these issues? Do you agree with the author's suggestions?
6. What is the author's overall attitude towards the future of the country? Why do you think so?
7. What are the strengths and weaknesses of the text? How does the author use language to convey his/her message?

